

The Front Porch Initiative: Rebuilding Safe and Healthy Neighborhoods

America's front porches have always been welcoming places to sit and watch people, say hello to neighbors and share ideas, tell stories or engage in friendly debate. Front porches are the first place where community bonds are created.

City of Vallejo Vice-Mayor Gary Cloutier, Council Members Stephanie Gomes and Tony Pearsall, and the City of Vallejo Human Relations Commission invite you to come out to the Front Porch in your neighborhood and talk about what is affecting your quality of life. Let's get the issues on the table and see which ones are unique to certain neighborhoods and which ones cross neighborhood boundaries - whether it is graffiti, loud boom cars, trash, illegal dumping, smoke shops or crime. They're all important and they all add up to quality of life in Vallejo.

After the last Front Porch Forum in June, the results of all of these forums will be discussed at a City Council study session, where we can set priorities and then move to solutions that we can all create - and implement - together.

The Third Forum will be
